

Progressive Merchants Realize The Value

of lighting their stores in the best possible manner and in order to secure the most satisfactory results, the new Edison Mazda Lamp is being used with gratifying success. The clear white light produced by these lamps is peculiarly adapted for store lighting, while the increased efficiency of the new Edison Mazda has placed it far in advance of the ordinary incandescent lamp.

You will be slighting an opportunity if you do not at least come in and let us demonstrate the superior qualities of the new Edison Mazda.

Notice.

Unless disposed of before that day I shall on Friday, 22nd day of December, 1911, offer for sale at public auction to the highest bidder for cash at the courthouse door in Henderson, N. C., a valuable farm at Boings crossing, near Henderson, N. C., containing 22 acres more or less.

Also the lot in Henderson, N. C., on Garnett street, adjoining W. W. Langston on Vaughan street and others, known as W. T. Boing lot. This lot has good improvements on it.

This is well located and valuable property and an opportunity for good investment is offered.

This 12th December, 1911.
A. C. ZOLLICOFFER,
Attorney.

Notice.

I have sold my wood working machinery, tools and business to David O. Sunderland who will continue to carry on said business in Henderson, N. C. I take this opportunity to thank my friends and the public for the very cordial support given me since I began business here.

I shall continue my residence in Henderson and now offer my services to the public as builder and contractor. In the future as in the past I promise to give my best efforts and attention to any business or contract placed in my hands.

This 20th day of December, 1911.
R. R. PINKSTON.

Natural Pottery.

Excellent natural pottery is manufactured by nature in the case of a certain cactus. Woodpeckers are apt to excavate nests in the trunk and branches, and in order that it may protect itself against these incursions the plant exudes a sticky juice, which hardens, forming a woody lining to the hole made by the birds. Eventually the cactus dies and withers, but the wooden bowl remains.

Just a Little Exercise.

The elevator conductor of a tall office building, noticing that the colored janitor had ridden up with him several times that morning, remarked: "Sam, this is the fifth time I have taken you up, but you have not come down with me." "Well, you see," Sam replied, "Ah been washin' windows on de leventh floor, and every now and ag'in Ah misses mah hold and falls out."—Success Magazine.

An Unusual Blend.

Mrs. Dorkins sniffed the air. "John," she said, "that smells like a new kind of tobacco." "You smell forty different kinds of tobacco, Maria," explained Mr. Dorkins. "I burnt a hole in my smoking jacket just now."—Chicago Tribune.

A Close Shave.

He—I had an awfully close shave this morning. She—Mercy, Jack! What was the matter? He—I needed it.

GREAT THOUGHTS.

If a thought be really great it may live through many ages, stirring generation after generation. The echo of a great physical convulsion dies quickly, but the echo of the words of Confucius and Buddha, of Plato, Seneca and Christ, still lives. The voice of Socrates before his judges kindles men whose ancestors were savages when Socrates spoke. Buildings decay, rivers run dry, races decline, but a great thought suffers from no impairment; it has the gift of immortal youth and strength.—Orlando J. Smith.

Children's Answers.

The superintendent of St. Louis public schools tells many anecdotes of odd answers which have been made by children to the questions of teachers. One teacher explained to the class in a lower room that an island was "a body entirely surrounded by water." Then she asked one of the little fellows in the class, "Now, Willie, what is an island?" "It's a person in a bathtub, teacher," said the confident Willie. Another teacher in the physiology class asked the class in general which was the most curious bone in the human body. "Please, ma'am," was the quick reply from a little girl, "it's the wishbone."—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Watches and Pickpockets.

"It's a peculiar thing," said the head quarters detective, "that with the increase in popularity of cheap watches the number of reports which we have received of watches stolen by pickpockets has diminished greatly. No first class pickpocket tries for watches any more. The same skill is required to get away with a dollar watch as a hundred dollar one, so when the dipo found they were touching well dressed men for imitations they gradually ceased trying for them. The objective points now are stickpins, which the crooks can appraise before trying for them, and wallets, which they are willing to take a chance on."—New York Sun.

The Trouble With One of the Eggs.

A man in a cheap restaurant ordered two soft boiled eggs and got them. Then he opened the eggs. The first one was all right, but the second—He called to the waiter. "Ill, you; look at this egg. I've a notion to make you eat it." The waiter came and looked. A far from pleasing odor arose, but either the waiter had a bad cold or he refused to notice it. "What's the matter with them eggs?" he asked. "They looks all right to me. Wasn't they boiled long enough?" "Well," replied the patron slowly, "they were both boiled long enough, but one of 'em wasn't boiled soon enough."—Chicago News.

A Queer Funeral.

One day some years ago a man passing along a street in a central district of London dropped into a gulf that suddenly yawned for him. He had got into a coal mine shaft that had been bricked over 150 years before and forgotten. The depth of the shaft and the accumulation of foul gas in it precluded the recovery of his body, so the borough authorities had religious services held over the hole. The mayor dropped a handsome wreath into it, and it was once more covered up and arched with brick.

Her Engagement.

Muriel (just back from the continent) — Well, Tom, I'm engaged to seven dukes, a marquess, eleven counts and nine grandees of the first class. Cousin Tom—What! Muriel—Oh, it's all one fellow. He's a Spaniard, you know.—Illustrated Bits.
